An open lunch buffet and entertainment by Tufts University School of Medicine's Docappella will be provided. There is no fee to attend this event.

On March 30, 1958, a resolution commemorating Doctors' Day was adopted by the United States House of Representatives. By 1990, legislation was introduced in the House and Senate to establish a National Doctors' Day. Following overwhelming approval, President George H.W. Bush signed the resolution designating March 30 as National Doctors' Day.
