HISTORY

In May 2000, the Massachusetts Medical Society (MMS) House of Delegates established the MMS and Alliance Charitable Foundation as a supporting organization of the MMS. The Foundation, a not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization, is a mechanism for consolidating the MMS’s charitable giving to the community into one entity, building on the activities of the former MMS Committee on Community Action and the MMS Alliance Charitable and Educational Fund.

MISSION

The mission of the Foundation is to support the charitable and educational activities of the MMS and the MMS Alliance, including, but not limited to, developing and nurturing cooperation between individuals, professions, institutions, and the community to creatively address issues that affect the health, benefit, and welfare of the community.

Message from the Chair

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

The Massachusetts Medical Society and Alliance Charitable Foundation is very excited to share with you highlights of what we have been able to accomplish this past year, because of the financial support and continued commitment from our donors to our mission of supporting physicians, patients, and communities.

The Foundation is proud to support physician-led volunteer initiatives that provide free care to uninsured patients and increased access to care for the medically underserved, as well as supporting organizations that provide case management services, behavioral health services, and prevention interventions to vulnerable populations across Massachusetts.

By investing in physicians and the communities they serve, we have helped to leverage their knowledge and leadership, as well as fill a major gap in care and services in the Commonwealth.

In these uncertain times, when our government has proposed limiting patient access to appropriate health care, which would disproportionately impact the underserved and the most vulnerable among our communities, the Foundation remains committed and your continued support is needed more than ever.

Together, I know we will continue to better the health and lives of the people throughout the Commonwealth by supporting physicians, patients, and communities.

Partnership

Since May 2000, the Massachusetts Medical Society has been in educational and service partnership with the Boston Chapter of the Albert Schweitzer Fellowship Program. Each year the Foundation grants the program $25,000 to help support medical student fellows who create and implement 200-hour health-related community service projects to address unmet health needs in local, underserved communities. In addition to their service projects, fellows participate in structured leadership development activities throughout the year. A summary of the outcomes and achievements of the 2016–2017 Boston Schweitzer fellows follows:

Iman Berrahou

Harvard Medical School

Community Site: Boston Alliance for Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, and Transgender Youth, Boston

Berrahou addressed disparities in cervical cancer screening rates for LGBTQ people by creating a film project and medical curriculum to increase education and awareness. The film, entitled We Are Not a Monolith: LGBTQ Perspectives on Cervical Health, featured powerful stories from community members describing both positive and negative experiences with cervical cancer screening, as well as interviews with providers sensitive to the needs of LGBTQ people. Ultimately, the project aimed to inspire improvements in the way LGBTQ people receive cervical cancer screening and health care.

Amanda Bilski

Tufts University School of Medicine,
Department of Public Health and
Community Medicine

*Community Site: Little Brothers —
Friends of the Elderly, Jamaica Plain*

Bilski addressed social isolation among low-income seniors in the South End of Boston by creating a weekly enrichment program for residents of a Boston Housing Authority subsidized housing site. This program provided organized activities for residents struggling with social isolation to reduce cultural barriers and cultivate a community with the ultimate goal of improving quality of life.

Emily Geldwert

Tufts University School of Medicine,
Department of Public Health and
Community Medicine

Community Site: Lynn Community Health Center, Lynn

Geldwert supported the design and implementation of a shared medical visit group for those seeking substance use treatment in the greater Lynn community through a partnership at Lynn Community Health Center. With a demand for treatment that far exceeds available services, creative community-based solutions are needed to address care for those with substance use disorders. Beyond expanding treatment availability, this project collaborated with patients and the entire care team with the goal of improving retention and satisfaction.

Madeline Wetterhahn

Tufts University School of Medicine,
Department of Public Health and
Community Medicine

Community Site: La Alianza Hispana, Roxbury

Wetterhahn addressed barriers to maternal and infant health in Roxbury by establishing a prenatal group and home visiting program with La Alianza Hispana. The program provided peer support, essential pre- and postnatal education, and assistance accessing maternal health and ancillary services and resources. The services and objectives of this program are being continued and expanded by TUSM students, including: assistance accessing MassHealth's free breast pump, WIC benefits, a bilingual phone application with due-date specific information, assistance with housing applications, and connections to accessible off-site health care for undocumented participants.

“With little reason and much heart, one can change many things, or move mountains.”

— Albert Schweitzer (1875–1965)

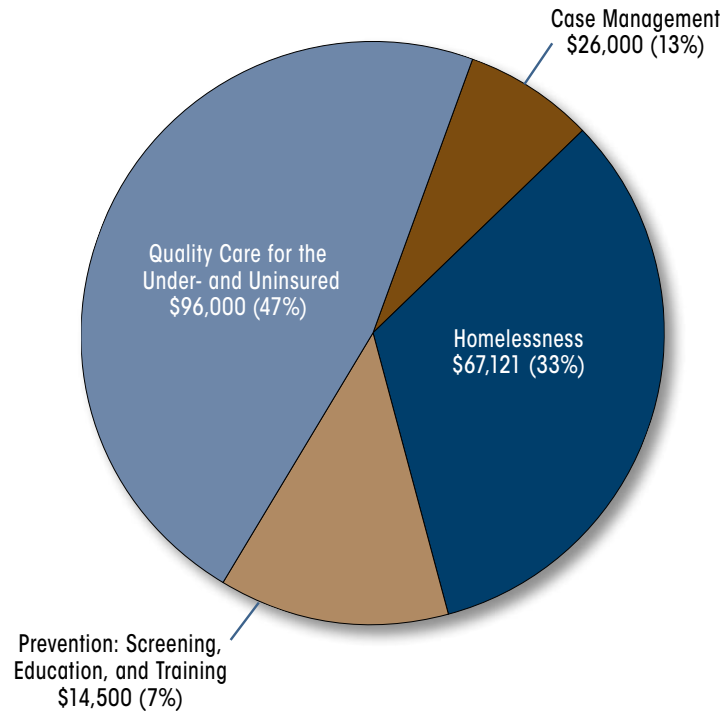

The Latino Health Insurance Program in Framingham received a $12,500 grant from the Foundation in April 2016 to support the Lung and Health Improvement Project, which includes blood pressure screening, cardiac risk assessment, smoking cessation, and health education for uninsured and underinsured low-income Latinos in the MetroWest area.

2017–2018 Regional Grants

This year, we supported 20 organizations for a total of $203,621. These organizations help communities across the Commonwealth address current health issues while also improving health on a community-wide level. Our grantees this year include opioid addiction recovery support programs, mobile clinics, homeless health care, case management services, and so much more. We are proud to share more information about these organizations in the following pages as they assist with our mission to support physicians, patients, and communities across Massachusetts.

BREAKDOWN BY TOPIC OF FUNDED PROJECTS — FY 2017

Total: $203,621

2017–2018 Regional Grants

The Foundation made a significant impact in the Northeast Region, supporting 12 organizations for a total of $105,121.

NORTHEAST REGION

Boston Health Care for the Homeless — $25,000

Volunteers in Medicine Berkshires — $15,000 To support the organization-wide screening for social determinants of health, which includes working with patients to connect them to relevant services, track and follow up patient referrals, and to work within the community to identify additional services.
Cooley Dickinson Health Care — $12,500* To support year one of a two-year coordinated, organization-wide approach to prevent and treat opioid use in Hampshire County.
Worcester Free Clinic Coalition — $10,000* To support the Coalition's referral project and equipment improvement plan at the five clinics in the Worcester Free Clinic Coalition, providing high-quality, free medical care and case management to uninsured and underinsured patients in the Greater Worcester area.

*Indicates first-time grant from the Foundation.

International Health Studies Grantees

This past year marks the 16th consecutive year that the Foundation has awarded International Health Studies grants. The program began in Fiscal Year 2002, with 4 annual grants totaling $3,000 and has continuously grown to the past year awarding 10 grants totaling $17,000. Eighty-four individuals have received this honor for a total investment of $103,900.

Medical Students

Five medical students received grants totaling $7,000 to help offset the travel costs of their international education focusing on underserved populations.

Name of Grantee	Medical School	Travel Location
Wenqi Feng	Boston University School of Medicine	Riobamba, Ecuador
Feng plans to go into psychiatry and work with underserved patients in the future, with a specific interest in global health and overcoming the challenges of psychiatric care in rural, resource-poor populations.
Elena Hill	Tufts University School of Medicine	Vellore, India
Hill plans to go into family medicine and primary care, focusing on underserved populations. She is committed to looking at ways to improve primary care delivery to diverse and complex populations.
Joseph Kahan	Tufts University School of Medicine	Artibonite Valley, Haiti
Kahan plans to go into orthopedic surgery. His interest is global health and surgery and improving surgical care in limited resource settings. He also has a degree in public health.
Wilfredo Matias	Harvard Medical School	San Juan Sacatepéquez, Guatemala
Matias' goal is to pursue a career in academic medicine that will allow for the care of patients, while continuing to advance the field of global health delivery and research.
Leah Wibecan	Harvard Medical School	Buenos Aires, Argentina
Wibecan plans to pursue a career in pediatric neurology, with a focus on global health. She hopes to reduce the burden of childhood neurological disorders and work to ensure access to health care resources.

CONTRIBUTION REVENUE — FISCAL YEAR 2017

Total: $293,000

EXPENSES — FISCAL YEAR 2017

Total: $257,000

Because of the extraordinary support the Foundation receives from the Massachusetts Medical Society, we are able to keep our overhead expenses extremely low. As a result, those who give to the Foundation can be assured that 100 percent of their contribution goes where it is needed most — to address issues that affect the health and well-being of the community.
