2021 Annual Accreditation Conference and Ralph C. Monroe, MD Memorial Lectureship

Inclusion and Change: Moving Forward in 2021

Thursday, June 10, 2021, 1:00–4:00 p.m.

Description

The Massachusetts Medical Society's (MMS) 2021 Annual Accreditation Conference offers an interactive, live virtual learning experience to support the professional development of CME providers and stakeholders. This activity provides an opportunity to develop strategies for planning and delivering educational activities that meet the needs of your learners and are in compliance with the ACCME Accreditation Criteria and policies.

This conference will offer engaging sessions and didactic presentations examining the recently released ACCME's Standards for Integrity and Independence in Accredited Continuing Education and identifying tools and strategies to incorporate these new changes into your CME program. Participants will be encouraged to reflect, interact, and learn from each other, the content, and the faculty, and apply shared skills, ideas, and resources into your continuing education programs.

Addressing how systemic racism and inequality in our society impacts health outcomes and health care professionals, this year's keynote speaker will offer tools to assist continuing medical educators with mitigating racism within their institutions.
