| one of the following:                   |  |
| "Point" (or "point of order")           | Is for a violation or potential violation of parliamentary procedure. That is, you think the chair may have made a mistake and needs to be corrected.  |
| "Appeal"                                | Any decision of the presiding officer involving judgement can be appealed to allow the assembly to decide. For example, if someone has raised a point of order and you disagree with the judgement of the chair, you can appeal. |
| "Parli' inquiry"                        | Is a question about parliamentary procedure that needs an immediate response before the entire assembly.   |
| "Factual inquiry"                       | Is a request for substantive information. For example, a request for factual information related to a topic of debate.   |
| "Reconsider"                            | Is to request whether the assembly would like to reconsider an item previously voted on at the meeting.  |
| "Question of privilege"                 | Is a timely request to address members' rights, reputation, conduct, safety, or convenience. For example, a request that a portion of a report be repeated because the transmission froze during the presentation.               |
